Alfa Laval wins SEK 140 million energy-efficiency order

Alfa Laval – a world leader in heat transfer, centrifugal separation and fluid handling – has won an order to supply compact heat exchangers to a petrochemical plant in the U.S. The order has a value of approximately SEK 140 million. It is booked in the Welded Heat Exchangers unit of the Energy Division, with deliveries scheduled for 2019 and 2020.

The order comprises Alfa Laval compact heat exchangers which will be used to in the process of producing polymers, for further use in plastics products.

“Petrochemical processing is very energy intensive. By using energy-efficient heat exchangers like ours, customers can make substantial energy savings which have a positive effect on their bottom line. Reduced energy consumption also cuts the CO₂ emissions which is good for us all,” says Susanne Pahlén Åklundh, President of the Energy Division.

Did you know that... Alfa Laval’s first subsidiary, outside of Sweden, was established in the U.S. already in 1885, two years after Alfa Laval was founded?
